115 Indicted in Alabama Race Boycott Case

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Six Negro ministers and another Negro whose home was recently bombed were among the first defendants arrested today for taking part in the racial boycott against Montgomery city buses.

They were indicted along with 108 other persons by a grand jury late yesterday after an eight-day investigation of the mass protest against segregation on Montgomery City Lines carriers.

E. D. Nixon, former state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also was among those booked on charges of violating Alabama's anti-boycotting law.

The law fixes a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for taking part in an organized unlawful boycott.

Nixon's home was the target of a small dynamite bomb the night of Feb. 1, but damage was slight and there were no injuries.

The ministers arrested this morning include:

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, pastor of the Negro First Baptist Church and one of the foremost spokesmen for the Negroes during the boycott.

The Rev. R. James Glasco, director of the Alabama Negro Baptist Center in Montgomery.

The grand jury report warned that "violence is inevitable" in Montgomery "if we continue on our present course of race relations."

The indictments were returned under a seldom used state statute which makes conspiracy to boycott a misdemeanor punishable by up to six months in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The grand jury's written report said the attack on Alabama's segregation laws by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is primarily responsible for current racial unrest in Montgomery.

"Distrust, dislike and hatred are being taught in a community which for more than a generation has enjoyed exemplary race relations," the jurors declared.

The grand jury was composed of 17 white men and one Negro, E. T. Sinclair, head waiter at the Montgomery Country Club. There was no way to tell how Sinclair voted on the indictments.

The indictments were returned less than 24 hours after Negro leaders rejected a compromise plan for settling the 11-week-old bus lines and the City Commission.

The great majority of Negroes who once patronized the buses have refused to ride them since Mrs. Rosa Parks, a seamstress, was fined $14 Dec. 5 for not complying with state and city laws requiring separate facilities for white persons and Negroes on public carriers.

Mrs. Parker declined to move to the back of a bus when requested to by the driver.

Senate Ready to Take Up Farm Debate

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate may begin debate late today on an election year farm bill, portions of which are strenuously opposed by the Eisenhower administration.

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee, who predicted early this year that Congress would have a new farm program on President Eisenhower's desk by Feb. 15, remained optimistic.

"I hope we can get around to voting early next week," he said in an interview today. Most of his colleagues seemed to think the debate would take considerably longer. The Senate is closely divided on some farm issues.

Two other items had precedence on the Senate calendar today: The reading of Washington's Farewell Address, an annual custom, and action on a resolution to authorize a broad inquiry into lobbying, campaign contributions and similar matters.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson ran into a storm of critical questioning when he appeared before the House Agriculture Committee yesterday to plead for the Administration's program.

Chairman Coolidge (D-N.C.) accused Benson of ignoring the House group in submitting specific proposals, telling him: "You've been in office three years and to this day we have never had an official bill."

He told Benson, too, with evident sarcasm, that in submitting new legislation the secretary should "advise with your attorneys so you won't request authority you already have."

Hughes to Get Plane Eviction Notice

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Howard Hughes is going to get an eviction notice for his huge flying boat.

The Long Beach Board of Harbor Commissioners ordered the city attorney yesterday to notify Hughes his craft, the Hercules, must be removed from the Jernigan Island facilities by April 1. The boat made one brief trial over water in 1948.

Hughes has been paying rent on the city property, but Long Beach sent back the last tender of payment.

On March 17, 1954, Hughes sued Long Beach for 12 million dollars for damages to the flying boat sustained when a dyke broke Sept. 13, 1953, and the boats hangar was flooded with mud and silt.

Arkansan Is Inventor of New Device

CHICAGO (AP) — A new electronics communications device which will transmit messages to or from aircraft on tape or page printer was announced yesterday.

The system was invented by James D. Durkee, who lives near Gravette, Ark., and will be distributed by Bell & Gossett Co. of Morton Grove, Ill.

The system also can be used by taxicab companies, truck fleets, ships, railroads, and similar remote operations.

One of its more useful functions, a company spokesman said, will be as a reporting device to air line pilots who will be able to ready weather and operational information off tape or page printer copy rather than receiving the messages through radio TV communications.

The device, known as the Dualex system, marks the first entry of Bell & Gossett into the electronic field. The company mainly is a manufacturer of heating systems and allied products.

Durkee said the next system will be especially helpful "with the development of the new high-speed jet and turbo-prop aircraft" which pilots have less and less time to do the job required of them.

Can't Convert Camden Plant, Navy Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A naval ordnance plant near Camden can't be continued in full operation past March 1957, and can't be converted to another use, say Defense Department officials.

The future of the plant at Shumaker was discussed yesterday by Rear Adm. E. S. Withington, chief of naval ordnance, and representatives of the Air Force with Sens. McClellan and Fulbright and Rep. Harris of Arkansas.

The legislators said Withington told them the Defense Department can't continue operating the installation because the supply of rockets it manufactures is sufficient to meet defense needs. The plant can't be converted because its production facilities might be needed in an emergency.

Most of the rockets turned out by the plant go to the Air Force. The Navy recently notified the National Firearms Corp., operator of the plant, that it wouldn't renew the firm's contract which expires in March 1957.

The Arkansas said the Navy plans a gradual reduction of the 3,700 people employed at the facility until only 425 are retained to keep the plant on a stand-by basis.

Hunting for Avalanches Is a Strange Job But Essential to Highways Over Mountains

By Hal Boyle
DENVER, (AP) — Ted Bakken, a lean, red-haired, 28-year-old mountaineer, is one of America's most unusual big game hunters.

He hunts avalanches. When he finds one that is ripe, he brings it down with artillery fire.

Ted uses a 75mm. howitzer as the chief marksman in a spectacular snow-fighting technique developed by the Colorado Department of Highways.

Keeping roads through 21 high mountain passes free of snow is an arduous and sometimes hard task this time of year.

Avalanches, roaring unchecked from high peaks and broken trees, have been more than a nuisance to motorists in the past. Between 1945 and 1952 they claimed six lives in Colorado.

Probers Find Oilman Donated to Ike's Race

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were reported today to have found indications that oilman Howard B. Keck made his biggest political contribution in recent years to the national Citizens for Eisenhower Committee.

The personal checks and bank records of Keck, president of the Superior Oil Co. of California, have been subpoenaed by a special Senate committee in its inquiry into a $2,500 campaign contribution offered by Superior attorneys to Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.).

Case rejected the contribution on the grounds he suspected it was offered to influence his vote on the natural gas bill. He voted against the measure, designed to free natural gas producers from direct federal controls.

President Eisenhower vetoed the bill last Friday, citing "arrangements" tactics he said were employed in his behalf by a small segment of the oil and gas industry.

As an outgrowth of widespread accusations that pressure tactics were employed by both sides in the gas bill fight, Democratic and Republican Senate leaders have agreed to set up a special eight-member special investigating committee.

Gentry Will Wait, See on Gambling

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 22 (UP) — The attorney general's office said today it would adopt a watch and wait attitude in the latest development in the Hot Springs gambling situation.

Yesterday, Garland County Prosecutor H. A. Tucker filed petitions asking the circuit court to stop alleged liquor and gambling violations at 24 Hot Springs clubs. Three additional were filed today, bringing the total to 27.

The move came upon the heels of a petition by Attorney General Tom Gentry last week to halt alleged illegal gambling and liquor violations at the Tower club, and was considered a move to block Gentry from filing against the rest of the Hot Springs night spots.

Chief Assistant Attorney General James Sloan said he hoped Tucker was sincere in his move to halt illegal operations, but said that if it was "a move to gum up the works, we have remedial action available to us to make sure they don't waddle along."

Sloan said, for instance, in article 7, section 4 of the Arkansas Constitution, the Supreme Court is given general supervision over all lower courts, and has the power to step in where necessary.

The Tower clubs hearing is scheduled for Saturday, and in connection with this, the attorney general has subpoenaed several county and state officials to answer questions about connivance. Tucker is among the group.

(Voluntary closing of their club had not been announced when this story was written.)

Sloan said as long as gambling is shut down one way or another, the attorney general is satisfied. He said the attorney general decided to act on the situation only because "the governor apparently refused to abide by his campaign promise to halt all illegal gambling in the state other than 'parimutuel gambling, which is lawful.'"

'Mad Bomber' Is Sought Since '40

NEW YORK (UP) — Police today followed up what may be their best clue yet to the identity of the mad bomber of Manhattan who exploded his latest bomb yesterday in a Pennsylvania station men's room, injuring an elderly attendant.

Detectives who have searched in vain for the bomber since 1940 rounded up a number of suspects hoping to find two men who were in the wash-room yesterday when the bomb exploded in a toilet bowl.

Parts of the bomb were identical to those of exploded and unexploded bombs found in Pennsylvania station and other public places since 1940, police said. Detectives said there was no doubt it was the work of the mad bomber.

Similar bombs have been found in Grand Central terminal, the public library and several Broadway area movie theaters. Some have exploded, some have not.

Stock Swap Given Okay by Court

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge has told Fairbanks, Morse & Co. to go ahead with preparations for a stock swap with Canadian Locomotive Co.

U. S. District Judge Joseph Sam Perry gave Fairbanks, Morse & Co. New York financier Leopold Silberman's big holding company that is trying to block the swap two more days to put up better arguments against the transaction.

Judge Perry said Penn-Texas lawyers have not produced sufficient evidence in the week and a half hearing to permit "the extraordinary remedy of injunction."

If Penn-Texas has not proven by Thursday that the proposed exchange of stock is unfair to Fairbanks, Morse stockholders, Judge Perry said he will release Fairbanks, Morse from its promise to hold up the exchange.

Thursday is the record date for voting qualification for Fairbanks, Morse shareholders meeting on March 28.

Hope Woman's Play Opening on Broadway

The New York Times for Sunday, February 19, gives top position in its theater section to a five-column rehearsal picture of a new play by a Hope woman which will open on Broadway tonight.

The playwright is the former Hortense McCorkle, daughter of Ed McCorkle of Hope, whose stage name is Mary Drayton. Her real-life name today is Mrs. Tom Helmore, her husband being a well known Broadway actor and appearing in the new play.

Miss Drayton's play, "Debut," is based on the novel "Maria and the Captain" by Israel Dunn, a story of the South. The play will appear at the Holiday theater.

Starred in the production are Inger Stevens, as the girl who has socially come of age; and Mr. Helmore as a Northern newspaper reporter.

The rehearsal picture featured in the New York Times shows Helmore and the cast toasting a life-size portrait of Robert E. Lee.

City Goes Along for $15,000 on New Gymnasium

Hope City Council last night voted to go along with a plan to underwrite $15,000 for School District 1-A, this sum to be used to enlarge seating capacity of a proposal for a new gymnasium.

The action followed a lengthy discussion. Under the plan the council agreed to try and borrow the $15,000 from local banks and signing a five year note. This money would be turned over to the school officials with the understanding that a portion of gate receipts from athletic events or other programs in the new gymnasium be used to retire the indebtedness for which the city would be responsible.

An earlier meeting between school officials and interested citizens it developed that the school had money to erect a gymnasium with a seating capacity of only 1,200. The citizens group protested this was hardly enough for a city the size of Hope, and the council agreed. Some citizens want a gymnasium to seat 2,500.

Thus if details can be worked out the City will go along with the large gymnasium idea.

In other action the Council voted to purchase a new trash collecting body from Choctaw Inc. of Little Rock at a cost of $3,750. Bids will also be taken on a new truck for the body.

The council also agreed to pay off indebtedness of Hope Civic Improvement Association. The debt was incurred by the group when City Park was first organized. The note incurred amounts to a little over $2,000 and the city will assume the obligation.

C. O. Thomas was hired to engineer the digging of a new city well, and Paul Rettig was awarded a contract for maintenance of parking meters.

No action was taken on a protest by Bill Roulton of sewage from the SPG draining into a creek which runs through his farm.

In other matters the Council voted to pay Attorney W. S. Atkins and Albert Graves $750 each for their work in the city's $100,000 lawsuit involving the Handley case. The suit was dismissed in Federal Court.

The group voted to purchase two radios, one for the fire department and one for the police department with the Civil Defense financing half of the cost. Bids will be taken to repaint the water and light plant roof; no action was taken on setting up a full time purchasing agent for the city; and Cemetery improvements will be made as soon as possible.

Plan to Help Farmers to Be Outlined

A discussion of the cotton situation and Farm Bureau's plan to help cotton farmers is an added feature for the Hempstead County Farm Outlook and Economic problems meeting at the Hope City Hall in the morning, Thursday, at 9:30. Ned Purtle, a local farmer and member of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Board of Directors, will present this phase of the program.

The Outlook meeting will open at 9:30 with a special film made available by Fred McElroy, local distributor for the Texas Company. "The colored sound film, titled 'The County Agent,' shows farmers working together through agricultural planning committees in the development of farm life.

Ted E. Atkinson, Extension Economist of the University of Arkansas, will present economic data that will be of special interest in planning individual farm operations and in making decisions necessary in the formulation of agricultural policy.

Yesterday 46 or more Hempstead County farm folk attended the area cotton meeting at Texarkana. The special interest shown in the soil bank plan and the basic crop control features as explained should appeal to many additional farmers at the Thursday morning meeting at the Hope City Hall.

5-Year-Old Girl Raped, Man Is Held

TEXARKANA, (UP) — Chief Deputy Sheriff Tillman Johnson of Miller county said early today that a 24-year-old man had been arrested in connection with the rape of a five-year-old Miller county girl.

Johnson said rape charges had been filed against John Roland Qualls of Genoa, Ark., in connection with the assault, which took place early Monday. Genoa is in Miller county, four miles from Texarkana.

Officers said the little girl was taken from her home by Qualls, a relative, and was held for several hours before being returned to her home after dawn Monday.

A Texarkana physician who examined the child confirmed that she had been "savagely" raped, officers said. Officers with a field news of the attack and conducted a widespread manhunt in this area for some 24 hours before the suspect was arrested.

Russell Urges Increase for Air Force

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) today urged an increase "of not less than" 1½ billion dollars in new Air Force funds to meet the increasing air-atomic powers of Soviet Russia.

"Frankly, I would like to go somewhere higher than that," he said in an interview. He is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He said he favors stepping up production of the B52, an intercontinental jet bomber which he called "the best deterrent to possible war." He also suggested an increase in funds to speed development of guided and ballistic missiles.

For hours yesterday, Russell and other committee members questioned Secretary of the Air Force Quarles and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, behind closed doors.

Quarles and Twining described as "austere" President Eisenhower's budget request for 1957 billion dollars in new Air Force funds. But they said it would be adequate.

Twining said he conditioned his support of Eisenhower's Air Force budget on an understanding it will be increased next year.

Expert Once Worked for Rural Co-ops

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Washington utility rate consultant testified today that he had been employed in the past by federal agencies, now was employed by the Arkansas Rural Electric Co-ops, but never had been hired to come to Arkansas and oppose Arkansas Power and Light Co.

Dr. Henry W. Blalock made the statement under cross-examination as the end neared in hearings on AP&L's application for higher rates.

Participants in the hearing before the state Public Service Commission said they hoped to complete testimony today.

Two days next week will be devoted to rebuttal before the 3-member PSC takes AP&L's application for a decision.

AP&L is asking for permission to add an estimated one million dollars a year on a temporary rate increase of about $4,200,000 that it now is collecting under bond. PSC approval of the additional temporary boost is needed before the higher rates can be put into effect by AP&L.

The power company contends that it needs the higher rates to earn a six per cent return on its investment. Arkansas law doesn't specify an allowable return for public utilities but the PSC traditionally has considered six per cent a fair return for public utilities.

Opponents of the increase contend that low rates to co-ops and large industrial customers are holding down AP&L's profit, and that an increase would be borne by commercial and residential customers.

avalanche central unit in action. The job this day was to test dangerous snow area in the Belaud Pass on both sides of the Continental Divide.

Pat Murray, a veteran road foreman known as "The Man on the Mountain," picked the targets. Other mountain men say Pat can practically smell when an avalanche is "ready to go."

He disclaims this himself, and says:

"You can't really know. Weight and wind are factors. So is the temperature. There are others too. But when everything is right, sudden vibration—a passing tractor, a rifle shot, even a honking horn—will start her down."

Young Bakken wheeled his howsizer, contributed by the National Guard, into position.

In the next hour he fired ten shells. They burst in red fire and black smoke in the high snow banks 300 to 400 yards away, and the sheer peaks tossed back the echoes of small slides, resulting, and it failed to reach the road.

A small crowd of spectators that had assembled was visibly disappointed.

"Guess I didn't earn my pay today," said Ted, as he finished firing.

But it had been worthwhile.

"We know the snow there is stabilized until there's some kind of weather change," said Miles.

Actually Ted has a pretty good box score. He has fired about 500 shells in the last three years, brought down 40 avalanches that reached the highway and about the same number of smaller avalanches that didn't.

The net result is that the highways are kept open, and the motorists feel a lot safer.

Publisher at Laredo Cited for Contempt

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—After spending the night in the Tarrant County jail for contempt of court, Laredo newspaper publisher William Prescott Allen today was to tell the grand jury what he knew about crime conditions in Fort Worth.

The grey-haired, 60-year-old publisher of the Laredo Times was fined $100 and sent to jail yesterday after he refused to testify before the grand jury on the grounds that it violated his constitutional rights and might incriminate him.

Later in the day, Allen announced that he would testify but judge McGee refused to release him from jail, saying he could purge himself of contempt only by testifying and that he would have to remain in custody until he did so.

Allen was subpoenaed by the grand jury after several front-page

Racial Issues 'Overplayed,' Says Folsom

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. James E. Folsom says the "world-wide attention" given the racial disturbances at the University of Alabama "has been very much overplayed."

He called on white persons and Negroes yesterday to "approach our problems in the spirit of calmness, understanding, debate and deliberation."

The governor said there is "naturally... a fundamental difference between races and tribes since the beginning of time. There is a difference in the fundamental laws of nature regarding the animal kingdom."

"The great masses of Alabama Negroes do not fear their white brothers as much as they do some of their overanxious leaders. Likewise the great masses of the white people do not fear the masses of the colored people as much as they fear some of the extremist white agitators."

"I say to the great masses of both races, let us approach our problems in the spirit of calmness, understanding, debate and deliberation."

"Especially do I call on each of you individually and collectively to approach our problems without fear of one race or the other race."

editorials in the Laredo newspaper, 425 miles from here, had lambasted this city for permitting vice and payoffs. He charged that one policeman here takes a cut of vice payoff money because he wants to run for lieutenant governor.

Allen was served with the subpoena while attending the annual convention of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association in Dallas Monday.

After being sentenced to jail, Allen said "in order to expose some of this crookedness, it's worth the price."

Circle 5 First Methodist Church Entertained In The James Myers Home

Circle 5 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church, met Monday, February 20, at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. James Myers with Mesdames Carl Gaddis, and John Pierce as co-hostesses.

Attractive arrangements of early spring flowers decorated the reception rooms of the Myers home, and the worship center was most beautiful and impressive with a candelabra holding thirteen white candles. It was explained that the middle candle which extended high above the other twelve, represented Christ, and the six shorter ones on either side, represented His disciples. At the base of the candles was a mass arrangement of yellow daffodils the entire length of the candelabra and in front of them was an open Bible with a living cross of yellow forsythia down the center of its pages. This worship center was arranged by Jan Reinhardt and Cheryl Myers.

The meeting opened with song and prayer.

Mrs. Claude Tillery, chairman, presided over the business session at which time reports were heard from Mesdames John Pierce, Odette Johnson, Clifton Ellis, Hinton Davis, Fred Glanton, and Sam Huckabee.

The group decided to give the four Life Memberships in April this year rather than May as in the past and it was announced that these would be voted on at the March circle meeting.

The chairman commended the members for their fine work and extended thanks for their cooperation in the recent mission study and luncheon of the United Church Women, and the Hendrix College dinner, both of which were held at the Methodist Church.

The program consisted of an inspiring devotional on "Prayer," by Mrs. James Stewart and the second session of the Bible study "Five Spiritual Classics" given in a most excellent and impressive manner by Mrs. W. M. Reinhardt.

The meeting closed with the members holding hands and repeating in unison the circle benediction after which the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Myers' daughters Cheryl and Carol and mother, Mrs. Willy Mae Ramsey, served a delicious dessert plate with coffee and salted nuts to 33, including two new members, Mrs. Syvill Burke and Mrs. Austin Hudson and one visitor, Mrs. W. H. Rogers.

Small basket corsages, Washington stickers on the napkins, American flags on the nut cups carried out the George Washington motif.

Demos Fuss Over Arabia Tank Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House Democrats grumbled today that the Eisenhower administration has been neglecting to consult Congress before making major foreign policy moves like the tank shipment to Saudi Arabia.

For the moment at least, the issue of the shipment itself took a back seat as some Democrats used it as a springboard for fresh protests over what Sen. Morse (D-Ore) denounced as "a course of foreign policy by secrecy."

But Rep. Judd (R-Minn), a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said, "I think they've consulted us on all that we have had a right to expect."

The evidence mood of some Democrats indicated that Secretary of State Dulles might be in for a fairly rugged reception when he tries to explain the how and why of the tank deal, probably later this week.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee chairman, Rep. Richards (D-S.C.), ripped into the administration which he said "is still of the 19th century vintage opinion that in the foreign affairs field the House is an illegitimate member of the family, and a weak-minded illegitimate son at that."

Richards outburst brought to the surface a latent resentment over what he says is an administration tendency to look to the Senate in consultation on foreign policy matters. He said he knew nothing about a Saturday decision to lift a brief embargo on all arms shipment to the troubled Middle East. "As far as I know," he added, "None of the House leaders were consulted in advance either."

Senators Sparkman (D-Ala) and Morse said the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was ignored too, and that Chairman George (D-Ga) wasn't notified of the original plans to send 18 light tanks to Saudi Arabia. They said George was told only when the administration ordered the tanks shipped after a

Got Acting Experience Behind a Bar

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Some actors boast of their training at drama academies. Robert Strauss is proud to say he got his at the bar and grill school of dramatics.

Off and on for 3 years, Bob was a bartender. And he says there's no better way to study acting.

"The best way for an actor to improve in his craft is to study human behavior," he reasons. "And you certainly see people as they really are from behind a bar."

Bob has proved his own talent in films like "Stalag 17" and "Seven Year Itch." He's now playing another GI in "Fragile Fox," and he paused between scenes to reflect on his life as a bartender. "It's an interesting life," he remarked. "You see people at their best and at their worst. I remember one guy who was very pleasant up to six drinks. But let him take that seventh one and he became a wild man."

"Once he thought I was a member of the Mafia out to get him. He came at me with a knife. Fortunately, there was another character in the bar who slugged

Around the World

LONDON (UP)—Pretty 24-year-old Kathleen Ruffy talked to a man alone for the first time in her life last night. She also had her first date and her first glass of champagne.

Kathleen had been a ward of the government since she was 3 years old. Under terms of a legal order, to a male person's alone.

But Britain's Chief Justice Lord Goddard yesterday struck off the legal bonds and Kathleen lost little time in enjoying her new-found him in the mouth, so hard that the guy's teeth clamped on the guy's fist. Both of them were injured.

But most of his customers were less violent, and Bob underwent the bartender's legendary chore of listening to their problems. "It got to be pretty bad in a neighborhood bar, where you'd get two or three of the same customers every day and that's all," he said. "There isn't much to do but stare at them."

Strauss got started on the tavern turn of his career in 1936, when he got a job in a Jersey joint as a singing waiter. Most of the time when he was tending bar he would entertain the tippler, employing such props as fright wigs, masks and an ancient fowling piece with which he coaxed the stinging customers to buy rounds for other guests.

Strauss tended bar from New York to Hollywood and finally gave up pouring to become a full-time actor in 1949. Oddly enough, he has played a bartender only once.

Among bar patrons, Bob classifies women as the least pleasant.

"There's something psychologically wrong with a woman who comes into a bar alone," he remarked, "and it usually comes out before she leaves."

Women are the worst tipplers, he added. The best are waiters, bartenders and others who know the value of tipping.

"freedom." Last night she walked arm-in-arm with Joseph Beckwith, a friend of her step-brother. Later, they toasted her release over a glass of champagne. And they talked.

Lord Goddard's order climaxed a long fight for Kathleen's freedom, waged with the assistance of the National Council for Civil Liberties.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UP)—U. S. Air Force planes were allowed to strafe and bomb packs of "killer" whales menacing the coasts, Iceland said yesterday.

but no aerial whale hunters have been conducted since last October. The World Federation for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals protested to Reykjavik and Iceland yesterday against the "unnecessary slaughter" of whales by U. S. airmen "recently."

PORTSMOUTH, England (UP)—A 25-year-old woman told a court yesterday that she has carried a knife and box of pepper to protect herself from men since she was "betrayed" by an American soldier.

She said she met an American soldier who fathered her child and then left for the United States without marrying her. Since then she always carried the knife and pepper, she said.

The court sentenced her to four months in jail for carrying "offensive" weapons.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UP)—Government authorities closed last night that street disorders and occurred in his industrial center and that troops had been called out.
